Serious act Shoplifters to face court prosecution

Summer's here, school's out, and retail shoplifting in Antioch is on the rise.

According to Antioch Police Lt. Tom Fisher, 12 juveniles were arrested last week alone for shoplifting in the Ben Franklin Family Center.

Items stolen included clothing, jewelry and makeup. One juvenile female was stopped outside the store with a bag filled with $108 in Ben Franklin's merchandise.

All those arrested will be prosecuted in Fox Lake court for violations of village ordinances on thefts.

Hot Corvette recovered in parking lot

A white, 1980 Corvette, reported stolen from the security lot at Raymond Chevrolet has been recovered by the Antioch Police.

The Corvette, owned by Charles Sansone, Lake Geneva, a Raymond Chevrolet employee, was reported stolen on June 12.

The McHenry Police Dept. called the Antioch Police when a Corvette with the same serial number was found at 2 a.m., on June 20 in the parking lot at Andres Steak House in Richmond.

The Antioch Police had the car towed back to the security section at Raymond's Chevrolet. The only noticeable damage on the car was a drilled ignition.

District 34 Special ed busing is $25,000 less

by GLORIA DAVIS

The Antioch Grade School Dist. 34 Board of Education spent much of its last regular board meeting discussing the most successful special ed transportation program implemented by the school district for the first time during the past school year.

During the school year, Dist. 34 transported 31.5 students for the full school year and 11 students for part of the year.

The district's total cost for that transportation to special ed classes came to $52,075, or $1,405 per pupil.

The board was very pleased to realize that, in handling the special ed transportation itself, the school district saved $25,000 for the state or $770 per pupil.

Approximately 25 percent of this savings will accrue to the district's taxpayers.

Dist. 34 buses also transported special ed students from the high school and Emmons Grade School and billed those schools a total of approximately $10,000.

Other board approvals included the acceptance from the teachers' union of the officially signed teachers' contract for the 1984-85 school year. The negotiations went amiably for the second year in a row.

Teachers received a total package (benefits and salary included) raise of 7.08 percent. The non-certified and administrative staff will receive a like increase.

The board also approved a five percent increase in the cost of school lunches for next year; spending $3,450 towards the purchase of new band uniforms (the Band Parents' Assn. to pay the balance of $10,000) and spending $15,000 to continue the tutorial reading program.

Supt. Donald Skidmore said the funds will be divided between W. C. Petty, the Lower Grade School and Oakland Grade School according to need, with Petty receiving the largest portion.

Skidmore said, "The board was pleased with the results of this year's program because of the improvement of the reading skills of those students who have below average reading ability but who do not fall in the special ed category. The program is well worth continuing because students who need it get more reading exposure."

Pet, Bicycle Parade goes this Saturday

It's almost time for the Antioch News/Antioch Reporter Pet and Bicycle Parade.

All the kids in Antioch are urged to hurry and register by using the form inside the Antioch News and Antioch Reporter. The deadline for registering at the newspaper office is Friday, June 29 either by mail or in person.

Registrations will also be accepted at the Lions Pavillion in Williams Park where the judging will be held on Saturday, June 30 just before the parade. All the kids with their decorated bicycles and their pets will line up from 10 to 10:30 a.m. and judging will take place from 10:30 to 11 a.m.

The pet categories are most unusual, best groomed, funniest and "Best of Show."

There will also be four categories for bicycles: most patriotic, most unusual, most humorous and most artistic.

Contestants will be placed into two age groups, seven and under, and eight to 13 years old.

Prizes for the winners in the eight categories will be awarded between 11:30 a.m. and noon. Prizes have been donated by the State Bank of Antioch, The First National Bank of Antioch, The Bank of Waukegan, Antioch Facility, Here's The Scoop and Awards By Kaydan.

Parents and all other interested parties are welcome to attend.

Chamber audience nods positive on revamping

by GLORIA DAVIS

Reports are that many of the 50 people attending the Antioch Chamber of Commerce general membership meeting on June 20, came out feeling better about the downtown revamping proposal than they did when they went in.

The meeting, held at the State Bank of Antioch, had real estate agent Michael Warren, head of the redevelopment committee, as featured speaker.

Don Marski, Chamber president, said the feedback he got after the meeting was very positive.

"Now that we understand the concept, the Chamber can endorse the move wholeheartedly," said Marski.

He added that he thought that it would benefit the village, its businesses and the retail customers.

"The time is right, the business feeling in town is very positive," he said, "and it's a good opportunity for prospective new businesses to see that the village is progressive and taking steps to stay in tune."

Warren told his audience the commission selected the plan referred to as C2 which calls for the removal of many building on the northeast side of the business end of Main St.

The plan includes provisions for off-street parking behind the stores on the east side of (Continued on Page 10A)

"The Lions are coming. The Lions are coming."

In hundreds of Illinois communities this summer and fall, this cry will echo as the Lions Mobile Glaucoma Screening Unit rolls up for a visit.

The unit, which is sponsored by more than 700 Lions Clubs statewide, travels thousands of miles each year to screen residents in hundreds of Illinois communities — large and small — for glaucoma, diabetes and hypertension.

THE THREE conditions have a lot in common — a relationship to blindness.

All three are medical conditions which can lead to or contribute to blindness.

"We want to give Illinois citizens a fighting chance to beat all three conditions," said C.D. Brewer, of Jacksonville, chairman of the Lions State Coordinating Committee on Vision Screening.

"We sponsor screenings for all three conditions and hope that the screenings will help people to take care of their health, to learn more about the conditions and to get help if we notice any of the danger signs," he explained.

SINCE THE unit's inception in 1969, more than 456,120 Illinois residents have been screened for glaucoma, a leading cause of blindness, especially among adults.

Of those screened, 13,088 were referred to their physician for further testing for glaucoma.

The diabetes and hypertension screenings were introduced in October, 1982.

In the first year and a half of diabetic and hypertension screenings, 12,335 were screened for diabetes of which 423 were referred to their doctor and 11,064 were screened for hypertension of which 203 were referred.

"MANY ARE unaware that a complication of long-term diabetes, can lead to some sort of blindness," said Dr. Peter Lagouras, an ophthalmologist on the staff of the University of Illinois Eye & Ear Infirmary.

He indicated that more than 95 percent of those who had had diabetes at least 25 years show some signs of vision loss. Diabetic retinopathy is a leading cause of new blindness among adults.

It causes legal blindness in approximately two percent of all diabetics and is responsible for 20 percent of new cases of blindness reported among all adults aged 45 to 74.

Glaucoma, on the other hand, is marked by an increase in fluid pressure within the eyeball. Unchecked, glaucoma can lead to blindness.

THE SCREENING lasts only a few minutes and involves simple screening procedures. Eyes are not dilated.

The screenings are a project of the Lions Clubs working through the Lions of Illinois Foundation, 7321 W. Lake St., River Forest, Ill. 60305.

Screenings are free and are offered to anyone over 21.

The program is funded primarily through Candy Day, held the second Friday of every October.

When I think about it

Helping those in need is moral, needless aid hurts my morale

by GLORIA DAVIS

Are you one of the many people, like me, who are living from paycheck to paycheck, happy just to get those horrendous utility and other cost of living bills paid each month?

If you are, and if you sulk all during the months of May and June when you realize that the ever-rising taxes being deducted from that ever-lovin' paycheck have deemed that you just worked for five or six months for nothing, maybe you won't completely condemn a suggestion I'd like to make.

Do you suppose it would be possible to narrow the list of people you and I are helping to support by a little pointed legislation?

Before you start dialing this newspaper or pen that irate letter to the editor, please hear me out.

We often hear about the abuses of the welfare system and unemployment compensation, wherein many who are capable of helping themselves find it easier to ride on the average taxpayer's tail.

There are many other government-funded aids which are needed, and rightly follow "them that has should share with them that needs," moral code.

The problem with some of these aids is that their guidelines are too broad, allowing many who don't really need help to practice the human failing of greed, almost putting you and me into the needy bracket.

For example, let's talk about Medicare and senior citizen discounts. It is my understanding that the intent of both of these programs is to help those who are unable to lead substantially comfortable and healthy lives on their own.

We hear constant warnings that the Medicare coffers are dwindling, and that most probably, you and I, and all the other members of the working force who are paying the taxes that support it, will probably never reap any of its benefits.

Maybe this money would last longer if it was channeled only towards those who would really have to do without.

There are evidently many elderly citizens who consider Medicare and any senior discounts available to them to be rewards for living to be 65 (in some cases 62) years old.

Since longevity is due only to the grace of God, and I haven't heard of Him entering any do-good contest lately, maybe these people are sadly misinformed.

Come on now, how many of you know senior citizens who drive to the dollar lunches at the senior centers in luxury cars?

I'm sure you know at least one elderly couple, who because of their own smarts (also God-given), lots of breaks, and God's benevolence, can afford a comfortable retirement on their own, and yet they rush to the restaurants that offer senior discounts.

These same people can often be found in the cashiers' line at the supermarket on senior discount days.

I ask you, is it fair that anyone, elderly or not, has a chance to afford to do or buy things with our money by utilizing these programs and then invest the money saved?

May I humbly suggest that we narrow the term seniors when used in the aid context. In other words, instead of just showing a birth certificate to receive a senior citizen card, a true financial statement should have to be produced.

Then, only those seniors who fall under specified guidelines will be able to benefit from these very worthwhile programs.

And maybe some of the funds saved could be used to hunt-up and help the many independent elderly people who quietly and unobtrusively do without because they shy away from what they were taught is charity.

I'm all for a golden and enjoyable old age, especially since I'm not all that far from that age category myself, but I hope that, when the time arrives, I will only accept help that I am really in need of.

As Henri Frederick Amiel once said, "To know how to grow old is the master work of wisdom and one of the most difficult chapters in the great art of living."

Along the way with ANNIE MAE

The male population of Antioch seems to be increasing. Congrats are due proud new parents Dan and Lorraine Sterbenz and their bouncing new baby boy, Bryan Martin.

Ellie and Bob Kennedy decided to go them one better as they produced bouncing twin baby boys, Benjamin and Gabriel.

Two of Antioch's most enjoyable summer outings are coming up, the Firemen's Dance on Saturday, June 30, at the Old Fire House. Lots of swinging to the music of K-Ace is expected to go into the early morning hours.

Then there's the Antioch Chamber of Commerce's annual golf outing at Harbor Ridge on Wednesday, June 27.

Antioch scholars are still chalking up good marks as the list of those receiving honor awards includes, Jacqueline Deering, Northern Michigan University; Robin McCarey, Lake Forest College; Cynthia Dawn Splayt, Carthage College; and Elizabeth Kromer and Jamie Vihnanek, Northern Illinois University.

And as usual, one of Antioch's fine artists has again won honors. At the regional Town and Country Art Show, held at the Kane County Extension Center in St. Charles, Mike Gross' pencil drawing won a blue ribbon.

Lions Clubs asking for old eyeglasses, aids

If eyeglasses or hearing aids are outworn or unusable, think twice about throwing them out. The local Lions Clubs can use them.

Old eyeglasses and hearing aids can be recycled to help people right here in Illinois and the world over through two Lions programs: the Lions Used Eyeglasses Collections and the Lions Used Hearing Aids Bank.

"Right now, we are especially short of hearing aids, and we can use as many as we can get," said Dr. Loren Boon, of Danvers, chairman of the Lions State Coordinating Committee on Hearing Services.

DR. BOON explained that the Lions, through the Lions of Illinois Foundation, sort the hearing aids collected and refurbish those that are reusable as part of the Hearing Aid Bank.

"New hearing aids are expensive," he explained, "and many who need hearing aids desperately, are simply unable to afford them."

Under the Lions Used Hearing Aid Bank program, donated hearing aids are made available to persons who need them.

Lions Clubs help to offset the costs of refurbishing the aids and fitting it to the needs of the person.

"EVERY YEAR," said C.D. Brewer, of Jacksonville, chairman of the Lions state Coordinating Committee of Vision Screening,

"Lions Clubs collect nearly 250,000 pairs of eyeglasses."

Volunteers sort and wrap the glasses for shipment through arrangements made by the Lions of Illinois Foundation, 7321 W. Lake St.,

River Forest, the charitable arm of the state's more than 700 Lions Clubs.

From the foundation, the eyeglasses are recycled through CARE and New Eyes for the Needy on the East Coast and through Amigos De Las Americas, based in Houston.

These agencies in turn ship the eyeglasses to poverty areas throughout the world for use by needy.

LaFontaine, Rothermel graduate

James LaFontaine and Robert Rothermel were among the 66 students who received their diploma of professional management in the Managers Program from the Lake Forest School of Management.

LaFontaine, who is staff engineer, Maintenance for Commonwealth Edison Company, lives at 21830 W. Michele Ln., Antioch.

Rothermel, who is at the Zion Generating Station for Commonwealth Edison, lives at 40392 N. Sunset Ct., Antioch.

The agency, World Vision, has a first-year budget of $1.3 million for its new program designed to assist churches and existing community development agencies in finding long-term answers to poverty. While not claiming to have an overnight cure for urban poverty, World Vision hopes to contribute to the success of existing community self-

Memory Lane

Summer job program surpasses last year

Stephen Smurthwaite, operations manager of plant engineering at Abbott Laboratories in North Chicago, and chairman of the Youth Conservation Corps (YCC) Advisory Committee announced that over $30,000 has been donated to the Lake County Forest Preserve District's YCC summer employment program.

The YCC program, while administered by the Lake County Forest Preserve District, is funded through private contributions from area businesses.

The young men and women, aged 16-18, are selected by a lottery to participate in the program.

The youth work full time for eight weeks throughout county forest preserves.

At the time of lottery, the YCC Advisory Committee had raised funds to support the salaries of 24 youth.

The names of 10 alternates were drawn to accommodate any additional contributions received before the program starts in June.

Positions for two additional youth were created with receipt of recent donations from: The Shaw North Foundation, The Lake Forest Women's Club, Form Corp., American National Bank of Libertyville, First National of Lake Forest Foundation, Grayslake National Bank, The Ziegler Foundation, Hewitt Associations, and Uarco Inc., stated Jerrold Soesbe, forest preserve director and secretary for the YCC Advisory Committee.

This brings the total number of youth participating in this summer's program to 26, remarked Smurthwaite.

"While we are four positions shy of reaching our goal of providing 30 jobs, we are still approaching organizations for donations, and are proud to expand the program beyond last year's level of 20 positions"

"It is truly encouraging to see Lake County businesses, industries, and organizations pool their resources for the benefit of area youth," said Donald Strenger, forest preserve district president.

President Ulysses S. Grant was once arrested during his term of office. He was convicted of exceeding the speed limit on his horse and was fined $20.

BRITTLE BONES & PERIODONTAL PROBLEMS

Q. Is there any relation between brittle bones and periodontal problems?
A. According to some researchers, periodontal disease can be the first sign of brittle bones (osteoporosis) that may not be noted in the rest of the body until many years later.

Osteoporosis, or loss of bone density, can start as young as age 25. With women, decline in body estrogen after menopause impairs the ability to absorb needed calcium from food. The typical American high-protein diet also reduces calcium absorption.

A diet of calcium-rich foods — milk, yogurt, hard cheeses, canned salmon (with the bones!) sardines, leafy green vegetables — along with a regimen of daily exercise, can go a long way toward keeping the calcium and the structural support needed for the entire body, including jaws, mouth and teeth.

Stage review

Andre's serves farce besides hardy meal

by GLORIA DAVIS

The luncheon theater running this season at Andre's Steak House in Richmond proves to be an amusing way to spend a summer afternoon, in a lovely air conditioned atmosphere, over good food and light entertainment.

As far as the lunch is concerned, be ready to eat hardy folks, as bowls of mashed potatoes and platters of chicken and roast beef wait their way around your table.

The current stage production, directed by Barbara Miller, is "A Gentleman And A Scoundrel."

This is a small cast farce that the packed audience found to contain a lot of funny moments, judging by the recurrent laughter that filled the room.

This is the story of an underpaid young man who is in love with his boss and what develops when he is mistaken for someone else and hired as his own assistant.

Now although the two salaries solve one problem, things get complicated when the boss falls in love with his other self.

Brian Blanchard plays the dual male role with enthusiasm. He has his funny moments and no one could possibly ever accuse him of underacting.

Lillian Allen plays a blackmailer who is eventually foiled. Hers is a familiar face, but the body is new. I hardly recognized this well-known local actress who has become a lost pound and is a mere shadow of her former self.

She carries off her role with her usual efficiency.

It's a new face to this reviewer that easily walks away with the show in her pocket. Colleen Jordan, who is just a wisp of a thing, turns in a big performance in a rather silly role.

Her stage presence and her wholehearted sincerity puts her in command of the stage most of the time she is on it.

Blanchard's and Jordan's considerable size difference makes for many good pieces of "Stchick."

"Gentleman" will run on Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays, through June 28.

Exporting Alaskan oil would drydock as much as half the U.S. tanker fleet and would idle 20,000 workers in shipping and related industries. According to the Consumer Energy Council of America, once our shipping infrastructure is dismantled, we would have no means of moving oil supplies during a national emergency or international supply disruption.

Offer computer day camp

"The computer day camp is the first of its kind at Central Lake," said David Price, Central Lake Family YMCA executive director.

Campers will spend approximately four hours per day on the computers with the balance of the day being filled with traditional day camp activities such as swimming, arts & crafts, sports and field trips.

Campers are to bring their lunch and the "Y" will provide afternoon snack, T-shirt and one field trip.

"This is much different than most specialty camps," said Price, as bus transportation is provided and it is an all day program.

the street; construction of a north-south street connecting Park and Depot Sts.; improved curbs, lighting and sewers in that area.

New buildings, a covered walkway and a clock tower would replace the demolished buildings.

The Sequoit Masonic Lodge and PM&L Theater Group have both endorsed the plan and there might be a possibility that both buildings may remain standing with some rehabilitation since they are both considered to be well-built parts of Antioch's history.

A public hearing is next on the agenda. Then the village would created a tax increment district through which the project's funding will come over a 22-year-time period.

It is hoped that the revamping will get a green light by the end of 1984.

Marski also said that future Chamber plans included establishing a marketing proposal for the town.

"We want an identity and we are going to work on giving the retailers and the customers a very positive attitude," Marski said.

The impact on American worker employment is readily apparent. This $343 million increase means that a lot of screwdrivers, wrenches, pliers, etc. made overseas—of non-American steel—were sold here, to the detriment of U.S. job opportunities.

Antioch T-Ball

The 1984 T-ball season in Antioch opened up with an exciting double-header.

In the first game, the METS scored in the bottom half of the last inning to post an 11-10 victory over the CUBS.

Matt Antonelli led off the inning with a double and Clinton Busch singled him in for the game winning RBI.

The Cubs showed signs of an exciting year with outstanding performances by Adam Lavigne and Jon Zora.

The second game featured the YANKEES defeating the BLUE JAYS by a score of 15-10.

The Yankees sent 9 batters to the plate in the first, third and fourth innings to score 13 of their 15 runs.

The Yankees were led by Jeremy Pederson and Erin O'Connell. The Blue Jays remained close throughout thanks to the hitting of Mike Kelly and Pat Bivona.
